in the constitution will warrant his saying that a single star has fallen. He is a swindler to know that a state has seceded, and to pay no respect to resolutions that declare she has done so. It is dangerous that does not follow that he would make war upon her, but he would exercise every material right over her. The most important of which is the collection of the revenue. There are many rights for which the people of a state, which might be dispensed with. If they do not want the mails carried, the President could abolish the post offices. They might not perhaps elect officers to send here, but they could do as they liked about that. They have a right to be perfectly represented here, but if they choose to forego that privilege, it is not incumbent upon the President to force them to send representatives here. But the Chief Magistrate must collect the revenue precisely the same as in every other state. No state can be released from that obligation, for the Constitution demands it. What follows? If the seceding state shuts up her ports of entry, so that ships cannot discharge their cargoes, then ships will cease to go there, or if the government blockades her ports to collect revenue; then she will not have gained her independence by secession. If she will feel contented to live under this equivocal state of things, all will be well; but she cannot do so. What will she do? She must take the initiative, and declare war upon the United States. Then force must be met by force, and she must hew out her independence by violence and war. There was no other way under the Constitution. He did not suppose that there was a lawyer on the floor but who will say that the act of levying war is treason against the United States. That is the result, and we may as well look the matter in the face. The Senator from Texas says that the South will force an ignominious treaty from us, in Paris Hall. To this he would answer, "Well, you may; we know your powers; we know your bravery; we do not want to fight with you, but, nevertheless, if you drive us to the necessity, we will use all our powers to maintain the government intact, in all its integrity. If we are overthrown the government will be subverted as thousands of other governments have been. If you are the weakest, then you must go to the wall. That is all there is about it. That is the condition in which we stand."

All this trouble is a matter of prejudice, superinduced by listening to the enemies of the Republican party. We are looked upon in the light of enemies, we are branded as traitors, we are styled John Brown men; but if the South will secede we will preserve the Union, and avail the glorious future. Mexico owes England eight million dollars and asks of us protection, and she has all the elements to build up a glorious Republican Empire. The Republican party will do anything for the Union.

The Senator from Illinois, and his colleague, had said that the Black Republicans would build up a black government. He (Wade) thought it would be one of the most blessed things if inducements could be made to every black man among us to find a home in Central America or lower Mexico; then adopt the homestead policy, and we will have such a power vested in native white men as was never before seen. Then Canada will knock at our door, and we will have all the elements to build up a republic more powerful and more just than the world has ever dreamed of. He was for maintaining the union of the states. He would sacrifice everything to maintain it. The glorious old flag of ours never shall, by any act or word of his, cease to wave over this nation as it is. But, if we will have it, in the new renovated government of which he had spoken, the old Fourth of July will never be repealed, and the old flag of 1776 will float over this nation forever. This capital, gentlemen had said, would do for a Southern Republic. Sir, it shall ever be the capital of our Union. It was laid by Washington and consecrated by him, and the flag, vindicated in the war of the Revolution, shall ever continue to float to the breeze over it. (Applause in the galleries.)

The Daily News.

Thursday Morning, Dec. 20, 1861.

CRIMES AND THEIR CAUSES.

At a time of general apprehension arising from casualties alarming, and increasing in a community, it is the duty of the press, not only faithfully to record them, but also to render all the aid in its power, in tracing the causes of such occurrences, and in pointing out their remedy. Here an ancient and quiet city, that has passed its bi-centennial birthday with a remarkably few instances of serious fires, suddenly within the space of a very few years, suffers the almost entire destruction of its industrial interests by the loss of three large manufactures, and sustains a severe loss of other kinds of property, until at last, we have to record three fires in one week, one of which involved property to the amount of over ten thousand dollars, until we are at last precipitated into such a state of alarm, as to fear the entire destruction of the place. All this, besides some ineffectual, because detected attempts, is believed to be the work of incendiaries. Such are the facts.—Let us inquire for the causes of this changed state of things.

Is plunder alone sufficient cause for all this? Doubtless there are ever those who stand ready to improve every opportunity to steal, but these have been so very few, as wholly to preclude the idea, that plunder alone is the moving cause.

Is it to be looked for in the fact, that our firemen, prompted by a jealous rivalry, set fires in order that they may have opportunities to bring the several compares to a trial of their strength and skill, as is alleged to have been the case in some of our larger cities. The noble and successful efforts of these brave men to save the city even against the most fearful odds, against the combustible boom, such a glow of happiness that charmed them never so well, the syrens of the outer world will charm in vain.

Then will our youth be weaned from the heats of vice, and attracted to the church, the conference room, the lyceum, the reading room, the temperance hall, or home; and many a home which is now a wilderness of woe because of a "thankless child," shall blossom as the rose, with the flowerets of virtue, harmony and love.

To this end we welcome any effort in our community to draw our young men to wholesome recreation. Let the philanthropist and moralist find here a proper field of effort, and lend their aid to establish associations and reading rooms to which young men may resort with both pleasure and profit. To this end we say, success to the spelling school suggested by us the other day—anything to take the place of the miserable resorts of our youth. God speed the day when our young men shall be rescued from the haunts of vice and the nurseries of crime, and be brought into the refining path of virtue, and imbued with a desire for improvement and self culture; when the club room shall be supplanted by the reading or debating room, temperance hall, church, or home, and a taste for good books take the place of a morbid thirst for pernicious reading. Then we shall cease to be startled and alarmed by a constant succession of crimes among us; and an education properly begun at home, will, in far fewer instances than now, be completed in the prison. In vain, otherwise, shall we add to our enginery and apparatus for fires; in vain multiply our police; in vain offer rewards; in vain shall we put forth any mere human efforts to save, until our young men can be brought under enlightening, refining, christianizing influences. Then crime shall cease to stalk in our community, vice shall shrink away at the advance of virtue, and quiet reign where now alarm is rife. "Except the Lord keepeth the city, the watchman waketh in vain."

EDITOR'S BOOK TABLE.

SARGENT'S ORIGINAL DIALOGUES: A Collection for School and Family Reading and Representations, by E. Sargent, Boston: John L. Shorey, Publisher; also for sale by Brown & Taggart, and in New York by C. E. Hammett, Jr. & Bro.

This new work from the pen of the author of the "Standard-Speaker," the "Standard Reader," etc., will, in spite of the apprehensions expressed in the preface to the new reader by the author, who has dishonestly supplied, to procure all the morbid stimulation, which their vitiated tastes require. In a city so quiet as ours, at this season of the year, few occurrences afford so many opportunities to gratify their thirst for undue excitement as a fire. And, when from any other cause, fires are of too rare occurrence for the gratification of these fast young men, the idea is conceived and cherished, and at last carried into practice, of getting them up on their own account, being careful, however, to save themselves from a total depravity, by selecting such locations as offer the least chance of destroying human life. The occasion of fire is to them one of great excitement; refreshments and stimulants are its pleasing attendants, and a good time generally afterwards to make a night of it, and an exciting subject of conversation for some days, combine to render a fire to young men thus situated the occasion of occasions. This may seem alarming to the moralist. That any one could be led to commit so heinous a crime against the community for such reasons, may seem incredible. But alarming and incredible though it be, nevertheless we believe it to be true. No one but he who has experienced it, knows the fearful control unwholesome stimulation exerts over the mind, especially of the young, and when unrestrained by a right education, or an unimpaired moral sense. Such are some of the causes of all kinds of crime in the community.

THE REMEDY.

The only remedy for idleness is employment. This, in times of financial distress, or in a community of limited industrial means, may not always be possible; yet under the influence of internal improvements already in their inception, we may hope, ere long, that a new impetus will be given to our general industry, and that all can be well and profitably employed.

But the chief remedy must be looked for where, also, rests the greatest responsibility—at home. Home! what a world of meaning there is in this pure Saxon monosyllable. To us, in New England, its meaning has been well said to be historic. How its influences cluster around us in youth, and follow us through all the after scenes of riper years. Where'er we go, our hearts untravelled always fondly turn towards home. Make home, then, what it should be. What the government is to the State, the parent is to the family—both by divine right, but neither the one nor the other to exercise their right for evil, or in tyranny.

Make home attractive. Let its attractive power be such as to neutralize that of the outside world. Home, too often, is so conducted as to be the very last place which a young man wishes to exit, whereas it should be rendered the last one which he would wish to leave. Throw around home that air of comfort and of enjoyment, and useful entertainment, that shall awaken in the youthful heart a glow of happiness that charmed them never so well, the syrens of the outer world will charm in vain.

Then will our youth be weaned from the heats of vice, and attracted to the church, the conference room, the lyceum, the reading room, the temperance hall, or home; and many a home which is now a wilderness of woe because of a "thankless child," shall blossom as the rose, with the flowerets of virtue, harmony and love.

To this end we welcome any effort in the property not in South Carolina and the value of the share thereof to which South Carolina should be entitled upon an equitable division thereof between the States. (Applause in the galleries.)

The Chair avowed the determination of checking applause or censure.

The resolution was made the special order for 1 o'clock to-morrow.

The Chair stated he had received a document, after the adjournment at Columbia, which purported to be an address from a portion of the Legislature of Georgia, addressed to the convention. It was tabled.

The Chair appointed a committee on Mr. Ingles's resolution, yesterday, Messrs. Ingles, Everett, Cheever, Gregg, Duncan and Hartson.

Also on the resolution to prepare an address to the people of the southern States, Messrs. Rett, Calhoun, Finley, Wilson, Deasuraw, Cheever and Tracy.

Mr. Detreville offred a resolution that a council of five citizens be constituted to act as advisers of the Governor, and that it be referred to a committee of the convention, to report by ordinance, or otherwise. On motion of Mr. Orr it was postponed to tomorrow.

Mr. Mazyk's motion to read the Georgia address, and Mr. Ingles's motion to refer it to the committee on foreign relations, were lost.

Mr. Hanlon's motion to lay it on the table was carried.

After the several committees were requested to remain, the convention adjourned at 5 till 11 o'clock to-morrow.

Numerously planted palmetto trees appear in the streets. The palmetto flags are also numerous.

FROM WASHINGTON.

New York, Dec. 19.—The Times' Washington correspondent says that the Conservative find little cause for confidence in the manner in which Crittenden's speech is received. There are no indications on the part of the Republicans of disposition to accede to the terms proposed, though some Southern Senators express the opinion that they will be satisfactory to the more moderate Southern States.

James R. Marks arrived this afternoon, with the electoral vote of Louisiana. He reports that the Louisiana Legislature refused almost unanimously to appoint commissioners to the other States.

Mr. Hamlin has had an interview with General Scott, on the condition of the country. The latter hopes quiet will be restored. He also had a conference with General Cus, who adhered to his original policy.

The World's correspondent says that Senator Wade has received letters threatening his personal safety since his speech.

The Secretary to-day issued his call for a five million loan; proposals to be handed in before the 28th.

The fugitive slave law was referred to a sub-committee in the committee of thirty-three to-day, who are instructed to see if it can be more effectually carried out.

LATER FROM THE PACIFIC STATES.

BY PONY EXPRESS.

San Francisco, Dec. 19.—The Pony Express, from San Francisco, has arrived.

The Secretary of State counted the returns on the 3d. The vote stands as follows:

Lincoln,	88,721
Douglas,	30,964
Breckinridge,	33,971
Bell,	9,113

Majority against calling a Constitutional Convention, 173.

The State debt is legalized by a large majority.

The sum of the Tuolumne water company was blown up on the night of the 1st inst., thus depriving a large mining district of water for two months which will be required for repairs.

The silver mines are to be worked by a company just organized. Specimens from thence have assayed fifteen hundred to six thousand dollars per ton.

The Washoe mining accounts are favorable. A new mining district has been discovered near Fort Churchill.

Oregon dates are to the 28th. The official vote is as follows:

Lincoln,	5368
Breckinridge,	5067
Douglas,	4144
Bell,	192

Lincoln's plurality, 30.

British Columbia dates are to the 10th.

Frazer River mining accounts are favorable. The miners are going into winter quarters.

DISASTER ON THE STEAMER COMMONWEALTH.

New York, Dec. 19.—The steamer Commonwealth, of the Stonington line, met with an accident this morning near Fort Schuyler, a few miles below the city. One of her steam pipes gave out, scalding seven or eight deck passengers and one waiter; some of them badly but not fatally. None of the cabin passengers were injured. All of the injured are doing as well as could be expected.

Petitions to President Buchanan to resign are in circulation here.

THE LIFE OF ANDREW JACKSON, BY JAMES PARTON,

Author of "Life of Aaron Burr," etc.

Three Volumes, 636 to 734 pages each, with Steel Portraits.

CROWN OCTAVO EDITION—Cloth Binding,

$5; Sheep, $6.75; Half-Calf, $8; Full

Calf, $12.

SUBSCRIPTION EDITION, Royal Octavo (held by Subscription only)—Cloth, $7.50; Sheep, $9; Half-Calf, $12; Full-Calf, $15.

Mr. Parton has been several years engaged in the preparation of this work, and has bestowed upon it the most careful research and investigation. The first volume of the Subscribers' Edition was issued a year since; the second was published last spring, and the third and last is now completed. Of the first and second volumes, the press have spoken in the warmest commendation.

"The life of Andrew Jackson was indeed an eventful one, and the events that were crowded into his career, as a pioneer, a general, and a statesman, are among the most important in the history of our country." —Tanton Gazette. "Almost all that relates to him is peculiar, extraordinary, and interesting." —Evening Times.

"Those who have been most familiar with the career of Jackson will be surprised at the mass of new matter the author has collected." —Boston Journal. "It exhausts the subject." —New York Day Book.

"It is an honest book throughout." —Nashville Union. "It is equally free from the spirit of detraction, on the one hand, and of unmixed glorification, on the other. Failings and virtues are alike faithfully delineated." —Western Christian Advocate.

"One of the most readable of books. Every page is a picture. It is as romantic as a medieval romance, and yet has the advantage of being true." —Home Journal. "Possesses a degree of interest which can scarcely be overstated." —New York World. "A fresher, livelier account than Boston's written of any hero, by any author." —Boston Recorder. "No work of fiction could be better fitted to hold the attention and bear the mind along with a sustained enthusiasm, than this account of the real life of one of our own countrymen." —Boston Recorder. "From first to last, the work is intensely interesting." —Philadelphia Item. "Perfectly fascinating." —New York Day Book. "The narrative is flowing and charming, we confess having read the whole (one volume) in two prolonged sittings." —Harper's Weekly. "The most difficult task was where and how to part company with it." —New York Argus. "Of intense and permanent interest." —New York Observer. "The most interesting political and personal history ever written of any man in this country." —Penruiter. "His style is fairly eloquent with vividness and fluency. His account of the defense of New Orleans from its inception to its climax, interests more deeply than a tale of chivalry, or an oriental romance." —America Times. "One of the most interesting and instructive books we have ever read." —Russell's Magazine. (Charleston, S. C.) "A life indeed, and before which the conventional and common place biographies of modern times sink into stupidity and insignificance." —New York Journal of Commerce.

Dr. Mattison's
REMEDIAL INSTITUTE, FOR Special Diseases,

No. 28 UNION ST., PROVIDENCE, R. I.

This SPECIALITY embraces all diseases of a PRIVATE nature both of MEN and WOMEN, by a regularly educated physician of twenty years' practice, giving his entire attention to them. Consultations by letter or otherwise are strictly confidential, and medicines will be sent by express, secure from observation, to all parts of the United States. All recommendations for pads and dressings, etc., are accommodated for pads and dressings, etc., in every part of the country. Return, and good care will restore you to health. Cheapest, giving full information with the most unfeigned references and testimonials sent by mail. Also a pamphlet on DISEASES OF WOMEN and on Private Diseases generally, sent FREE by enclosing one stamp as above.

To Invalids.

All who have any serious disease, will very naturally seek advice somewhere, and this leads us to say a few words on the CHOICE OF A PHYSICIAN, and the importance of Consulting a Physician ALONE.

If you have an intelligent physician in your vicinity apply to him, and follow his direction for a suitable length of time, and in what practice you may be, then you are safe. But if you consult a MEDICAL JOURNALIST, or a physician in general practice, no matter how eminent, can tell you who does not do well, and who does well. Such a physician is not fit to be called an ADVERTISING PHYSICIAN. IN NINE CASES OUT OF TEN, ARE IMPOSTORS. Unable to write a single sentence correctly concerning their practice, they copy from the Boston Herald, always changing the names and place of business. They publish FALSE CERTIFICATES of persons who NEVER EXISTED, entitling the physician to a large sum of money, and then exact large sums of money from them under threats of exposure, or launch them into their course and ruin if possible. There are scores of persons who will read this and say, "I am not so bad." But, if you are not as bad as they are compelled to suffer for fear of exposing them selves. The only security against imposition is in making INQUIRY before consulting ANY ONE. Take an man's word for it, and you will be disappointed. If you are not more than half a column in extensiveness and false ASSERTIONS. If you allow yourself to be misled by falsehood, you will have reason to repeat it when it is too late.

DR. MATTISON is the only educated Physician in Providence, if not in New England who devotes entire attention to Private Diseases and Diseases of Women, and he furnishes the most unfeigned references and testimonials, etc., there are none, BUT THEN NO THE SAME.
